Big Shapes to Color

16 pages - one picture per page, nothing small

Toddler coloring pages fail for one reason: the lines are thin and the spaces are too small for a fist holding a crayon.

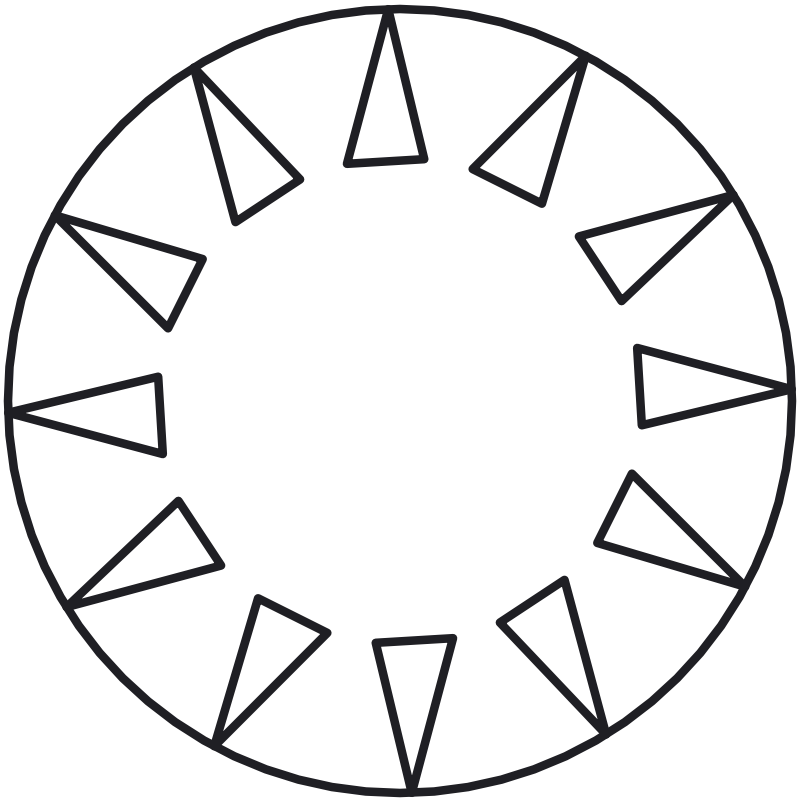

Every page here is one picture with a thick outline, filling most of an A4 sheet, and only the interior lines that make it readable - a window in the rocket, an eye on the fish.

Twelve pictures, then four petal patterns for an older child.

US Letter - black ink only - ages 2-6
